Truancies Inevitable Part of Shawono

This is the 2nd of a Three-Part Series
on Shawono Center

by Irene Pettyjohn

Since Shawono changed to a training school in June, 1986, 28 of its 78 residents have truanted (ran away or left without authorization).

--11 of these 28 residents subsequently earned their release.

--7 were sent to the maximum security facility, Green Oak Center, at Whitmore Lake.

--2 were sent to county jails.

--3 are still residents at Shawono, and

--3 are still at large. (One resident is with his brother in Canada, and the two others have been at large for over one year and have been released from state wardship).

During the three years (1983-86) that Shawono operated a camp program, 100 of 219 campers truanted. This was an average of 50 truancies a year.

Charles Amman, Shawono Center's acting director, said that most truancies occur in the spring, when the snow has melted, and in late fall. He said that from October, 1988, to June, 1989, seven Shawono residents have truanted, and none of these truancies occurred in December, January, February or March.

The Shawono Center defines truancy as being off campus without authorization for six hours or more. If a resident leaves the campus for less than six hours before he is picked up or returns on his own, it is considered an unsuccessful truancy, and the resident is disciplined by the Center. The statistics used in this article are based on successful truancies only.

TRUANCY PREVENTION

Regardless of how many security measures are taken to prevent truancies, truancies are an inevitable part of Shawono's training program. Amman explained that Shawono has dead bolt locks on all its doors, and when the residents are inside a building they cannot truant. He said that metal screens have been placed on all windows, and the Center has increased its direct care staff to a minimum of four youth specialists for 30 residents during day and afternoon hours and three youth specialists during the sleeping hours. Besides these direct care supervisors, Amman said Shawono has two program managers, four teachers, and a director.

"That is a high ratio of people watching kids," Amman stated.

Internally, Amman said the group program holds the members of a group responsible for truancies within the group. Each group is responsible for the whereabouts of the members of that group. When walking outside the confines of the locked buildings, the group is supposed to be aware of who the truancy risks are within the unit. Those persons are placed inside the group with people walking on either side, in front and behind the truancy risk member.

"The group is most vulnerable for truancy when it is off grounds," said Amman.

To reduce this vulnerability, Jim Sandborn, program manager, said that the strength of each group is assessed in weekly team meetings before Shawono will approve any off ground activities. These teams consist of youth specialists, teachers, group leaders, program managers and food service supervisors.

Amman said that technically, Shawono could keep its residents locked up all the time and the incidence of truancy would decrease substantially. The problem with this type of program, he said, is that it lacks any incentive to go forward in the program.

WHY TRUANT?

Truancies occur for a variety of reasons. Amman explained that residents first arriving at Shawono, angry with everyone, and fighting their placement are likely truancy candidates as is the resident on level five in the program who is nearing his release, but is fearful that the circumstances that brought him to Shawono initially still exist outside Shawono.

"They are fighting us to get out when they

'87 PCB Spill Cleaned Up at Camp Grayling

Information from AuSable Conservation Trust (ACT) president, Linda Caswell, that a PCB spill occurred at Camp Grayling in 1987 has been confirmed by both the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Camp Grayling personnel. On July 11, Caswell presented a PCB (Polychlorinated Biphenyls) inspection report from Environmental Conservation Officer Greg Katalenich to the Crawford County Board of Commissioners, which detailed the improper storage of 18 electrical transformers and the consequent PCB leakage at Camp Grayling.

Andrea Sikkenga, Environmental Specialist with the Department of Military Affairs (DMA), stated that to her knowledge, all of the stored transformers and contaminated materials involved in the 1987 PCB "spill" have been disposed of under U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) regulations.

Sikkenga produced copies of DNR hazardous waste disposal manifests, dated February 3, 1988, which state that 28 transformers, some contaminated water, pallets and the contaminated soil were sent to Selfridge Air National Guard Base for disposal. On December 16, a second shipment containing one transformer was sent to Selfridge. Sikkenga said Selfridge is the Defense Reutilization and Marketing Office (DRMO) which serves as the consolidation destination for National Guard hazardous and non-hazardous waste. Selfridge then contracts for disposal. Sikkenga said only two transformers contained more than 500 parts per million (ppm) of PCB. One contained 748,000 ppm and another, 787,000 ppm.

A follow-up inspection to the Katalenich inspection was conducted on June 28, 1988, by Joseph Fredle, Environmental Engineer with the EPA, who confirmed that no PCB items were being stored at the Camp Grayling facility.

"I feel very comfortable with Camp Grayling's PCB program," said Sikkenga, an employee of the State of Michigan with a degree in environmental science. Prior to joining the DMA, she worked for seven years for the DNR.

IN COMPLIANCE

During the DNR's most recent PCB compliance inspection, conducted by Gary S. Tuma, Camp Grayling was found to be in compliance with the EPA's Toxic Substance Control Act (TSCA) with the exception of two "paper violations" concerning record keeping omissions. Greg Huntington, Environmental Coordinator for the DMA, explained that the first citation requires no action by Camp Grayling, and that Sikkenga has already complied with the second citation.

In addition to the disposal of all storage materials containing PCB, Sikkenga said that in September, 1988, Electric Equipment Service Corp. from St. Paul, Minnesota, tested and labeled all 192 transformers in use at Camp Grayling for PCB. Thirteen transformers contain between 50 to 500 ppm of PCB and the remainder contain less than 50 ppm. This service cost Camp Grayling nearly $25,000.

1976 To 1984 Questioned

The DNR, DMA and even ACT seem to be satisfied that the 1987 Camp Grayling PCB problem has been properly addressed according to TSCA regulation. The question that ACT continues to pose is what kinds of spills occurred at Camp Grayling during the time between October 11, 1976, when the EPA adopted the TSCA regulations and November 1984, when Huntington was hired and the State of Michigan's DMA began its attempt to come into compliance with the eight year old TSCA regulations. Caswell said she was concerned about possible ground water contamination and the consequent pollution of the water and aquatic life of Lake Margrethe.

Larry Thornton, DNR District Supervisor of Environmental Response, stated during a telephone interview, that based on current reporting, it is a fair assumption that other spills have occurred at Camp Grayling during the years of non-compliance, and that without records it is impossible to know whether there were other PCB leaks or spills. Thornton also said that DNR testing is assigned on a priority basis and that he doubted that with the number of known or suspected cases of ground water contamination in the state (1500) whether the DNR would test for a hypothetical situation. He encouraged the ACT group to take its concerns directly to the DMA.

Don Inman, Assist Deputy Director of Region II and the DNR person in charge of coordinating environmental concerns at Camp Grayling, said he felt ACT's concerns for contaminations that may have occurred during the period of time between 1976 and 1984 are fair, and said the questions would be raised with the DMA at their September 15th meeting.

The Katalenich report, dated March 28, 1987, contained information gathered from his initial inspection on March 19 with Conservation Officer Bruce Patrick, who first discovered the transformers in an unsecured area, and a meeting on March 12 with LTC Lee Lawson, Facilities Engineer.

That report stated that Camp Grayling did not appear to be in compliance with the PCB regulations because the facility had not conducted and documented periodic inspections of the stored transformers; had not labeled the PCB

I-75 Rest Area Will Expand in '92

The I-75 rest area on the north bound lane, just south of Grayling is scheduled for a $1.5 face lift in the spring of 1992.

Jay Bastian, MDOT engineer, explained that a certain number of rest areas, usually those that are located about every 1 1/2 hours from a southern metropolitan area, receive heavy traffic and the Grayling rest area is located in one of these patterns from Detroit. Bastian said that on holidays it is not unusual to find overcrowded parking conditions and lines at the rest rooms.

The construction project will include tearing down the existing facility and construction of a larger building that will offer four rest rooms (two men's and two women's), and a vending machine room. Bastian said the additional rest rooms will offer a better level of service, allowing cleaning crews to close a rest room for cleaning and yet have one rest room open to the public at all times. During the winter months two of the rest rooms will be closed.

Vending machines are requested by travelers, and the Grayling rest area will offer a variety of soft drinks, candy bars, and other snack foods.

In addition to the building construction, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) will be seeking additional right-of-way property to expand both the truck/recreational vehicle and car parking facilities.

Bastian said the federal government through a Highway Administration grant will fund about 90 percent of the project, with the state paying about 10 percent.

Conway Awaits Sentencing in Jail

Circuit Court Judge, William A. Porter, temporarily postponed the sentencing of Richard Conway until his attorney, James Deamud, of Houghton Lake, has an opportunity to review reports from two psychiatrists.

Crawford County Prosecutor, John Huss, objected to the postponement, stating that he was prepared to proceed.

Judge Porter granted the postponement. He also granted a request from Huss that Conway's bail be revoked on the grounds that the presumption of innocence is no longer possible following Conway's guilty plea of second degree murder in the August 5, 1988, death of his 11-week old daughter, Kati Jo Conway.

Conway is in the County Jail awaiting sentencing.

Intersection Accident Injures 3 Persons

Three persons were injured early Sunday morning, August 6, when a vehicle driven by Roy Renon, 34, of Grayling, failed to stop for the traffic signal at the intersection of M-72 and the I-75 Business Loop and struck a car driven by Amy Cox, 16, of Farmington Hills.

Grayling City Police said Renon was traveling West on M-72 at a high rate of speed when he failed to stop. The Jaws of Life were used to get Renon and his passenger, Gerald Renon, 35, also of Grayling, and the driver's brother, out of their vehicle.

Roy Renon, Gerald Renon and Amy Cox were all transported to Grayling Mercy Hospital. Roy Renon was transferred to Munson Medical Center in Traverse, Gerald Renon was admitted to Grayling Mercy Hospital for observation, and Amy Cox, who received only minor cuts, was treated and released.

The Grayling City Police Dept. was assisted at the accident scene by Crawford County Sheriff Dept., Michigan State Police and the Grayling City and Township Fire Dept.

The accident is still under investigation.

Local Police Find Stolen Car, Suspect

A Lansing man was arrested on Monday, August 7, by the Crawford County Sheriff Dept. for unlawful driving away of an automobile (UDAA).

The vehicle was reported stolen from Holt on June 17. The Sheriff's Dept. and Grayling Police Dept., received information on the location of the vehicle and began watching it. On August 7th a suspect was arrested when a Sheriff's Officer stopped him as he was driving the stolen car.

In addition to the charge of UDAA, the suspect is being charged with driving a motor vehicle with a suspended driver's license. The man is also wanted for arson and probation violations from Ingham County.

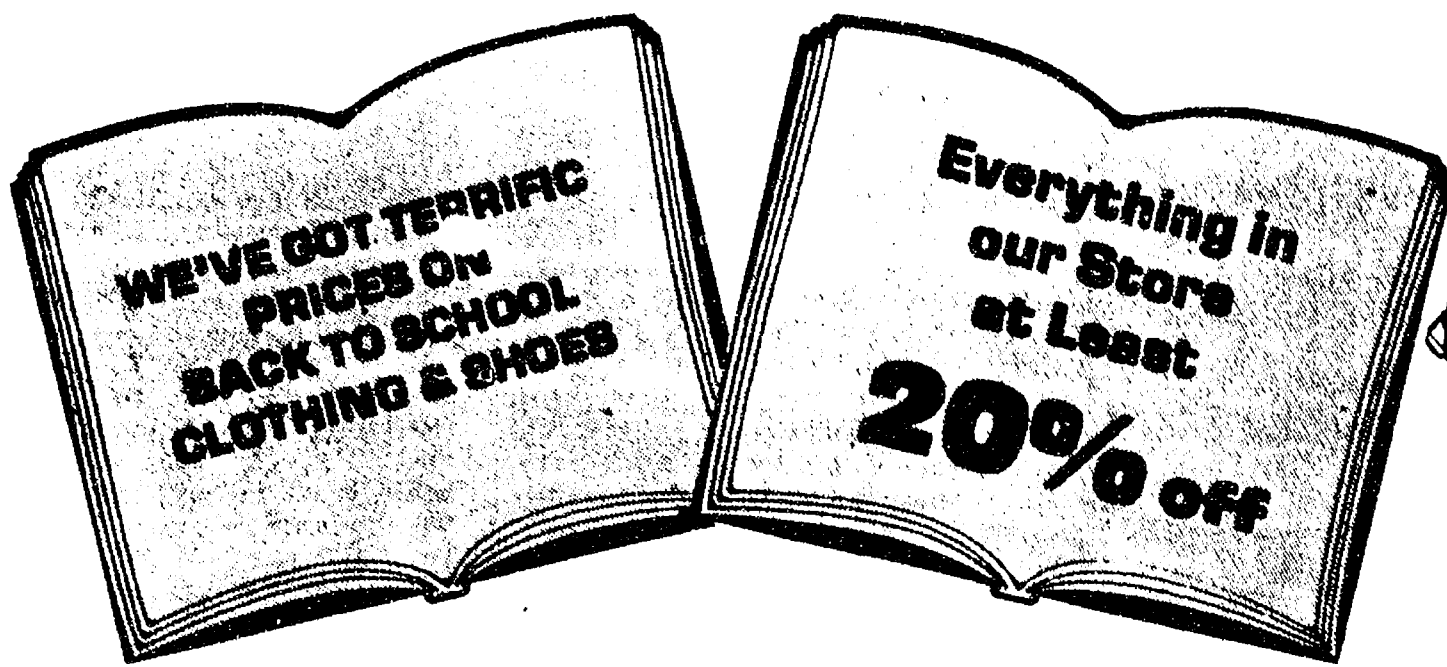

The suspect is lodged in the County Jail awaiting arraignment.

I-75 Accident Injures 2 Monday

Sara Monro, 17, of Canton, and her passenger, Julie Monro, 18, of Utica, received only minor injuries last Monday, August 7, when the car driven by Sara Monro left the northbound lane of I-75 and rolled over onto the shoulder of the northbound lane of US 27.

A Sheriff's deputy said Monro lost control of her car when she attempted to adjust her radio. Both the driver and passenger (cousins) were wearing their seat belts.

come," said Amman, "and they are fighting us when it is time for them to leave." Amman said that this is not always the case, but because Shawono often times offers the only secure structured atmosphere experienced by many of the residents, it becomes like a home.

TRUANCY - WHAT NOW?

As soon as the staff is alerted that a resident has truanted, a search of the surrounding woods is immediately started. Additional staff is brought in to either join in the search, or to supervise on-campus residents. Calls are made to the Crawford County Sheriff Dept., the Gaylord State Police Post, and to three community telephone fan-out systems, Lake Margrethe, Manistee River area, and the Arrowhead Road area informing of the truancy.

Residents in these areas are asked to remove the keys from their cars, lock their cars, lock the doors to their homes and if it is night, turn on all the outside lights. Amman said the greatest threat to county residents in the event of a truancy is property damage or theft as the Shawono resident tries to leave the area. County residents are asked not to participate in the search, but only to lock up and light up their property.

CONSEQUENCE OF TRUANCY

Shawono can only hold a bed for a truant resident for between three to five days, and then it must fill it with someone from its waiting list. Truant residents found after the bed is filled are sent to the regional detention center in Flint, until a bed can be found.

If a criminal act is committed during the truancy, such as car theft or robbery, the juvenile may face further prosecution. If no additional felonies are committed, the truant resident must go before a parole review board where a decision is made regarding the resident's future placement, whether he is to be returned to a medium security facility or sent on to maximum security. If a truant resident is returned to the Shawono Center, restitution for damages and expenses becomes an issue between the resident and the Center.

RESTITUTION

Restitution is an important part of Shawono's program, as the Center strives to teach that each resident is responsible for his own actions. Often residents come to Shawono owing restitution costs for prior acts against society. These obligations come in the form of financial indebtedness because of court fines, traffic tickets or community service time. Even though residents are not required to completely repay these obligations before they can be released, Shawono's program requires that a resident put forth a "good faith effort" to repay his debt or it will withhold approval of his release.

Restitution is required for all intentional damage inflicted by residents to both the facility's property and the staff's personal property. Restitution is required for any damage or expenses incurred by members of the community during the act of truancy.

Residents who stole an automobile from the Bud Joyce residence at Lake Margrethe were required to pay $400 in restitution costs, said Amman, and the resident who escaped from Shawono last month and took Larkin Baker's car is being assessed Baker's expenses to retrieve his car from Mecosta County and any damage to the car.

Making restitution for prior court fines and property damage expenses is difficult for Shawono's residents because the opportunities for them to earn money is limited. The staff at Shawono is always looking for projects within the community that would enable residents to earn money for their financial obligations. One way the residents earn money is cutting cedar logs for a log cabin company from a nearby swamp. Because of the Centers' off-campus restrictions for truancy risks, Amman said that work projects that can be completed in one day are best. He said that suggestions for work projects are always appreciated and that the Center will continue to cooperate with prospective employers.

Next week the third article of this series will look at what happens to Shawono residents when they encounter "life after Shawono."

GENEROUS DONATION - Loy and Loretha McIntyre of Frederic Township donated this 10 ft. x 10 ft. x 6 ft. chain link pen, valued at over $300, to the Crawford County Animal Shelter. The pen is made of four separate sections making it transportable. The shelter is using it as its "puppy pen."

Weyerhaeuser Gives $6000 For Michigan Outdoors Show

The Weyerhaeuser Company Foundation Michigan Public Television program is providing a $6,000 "Michigan Outdoors." The gift was made to Central Michigan University station WCMU-TV in Mt. Pleasant and is specified for funding broadcasts of "Michigan Outdoors" within the station's range, including Midland, Bay City, Traverse City, Big Rapids, Manistee, Saginaw, Petoskey, Alpena and surrounding areas in the northern half of the lower peninsula.

"We share a common responsibility with the hunters and fishermen who watch this program," said Rodger Anger, General Manager at Weyerhaeuser's Grayling Structurwood facility. "As good stewards of wildlife populations, they observe hunting seasons and other limitations. Our stewardship of wildlife habitat is accomplished through responsible, well managed harvesting techniques."

The "Michigan Outdoors" program originated on commercial television in the 1950s. Today, 15 Michigan Public Television stations broadcast the program hosted by Fred Trost, cinematographer for the original version 30 years ago. WCMU-TV airs the program Thursday at 8 p.m. and repeats it on Saturday at noon.

transformers, storage area and drum containing contaminated soil; had not stored the PCB transformers and contaminated soil as directed by PCB regulations; had not disposed of the PCB in an EPA approved disposal facility and did not develop and maintain yearly records on the disposition of PCB materials.

In the report, Katalenich wrote that he had directed LTC Lawson to have the spilled material and contaminated soil picked up and stored until laboratory analysis revealed its true PCB content. The contaminated soil was placed in a 55 gallon drum. Besides the first 18 transformers, LTC Lawson took Katalenich to building #36 where approximately 35 additional transformers were being stored.

According to the report, LTC Lawson stated he knew nothing about PCB or PCB disposal regulations, that all Camp Grayling transformers were "maintained by the military and that the facility had no records of what transformers contained PCB, or which ones didn't." He also said he had been in contact with DMA Environmental Coordinator Greg Huntington and the transformers were to be placed in individual overpack drums and stored until samples could be taken on Monday, March 16.

LTC Lawson said other than that, the Camp had no inventory or plan to deal with the PCB transformers, but had indicated a desire to "put something in place." Sikkenga said the task of disposing of the stored transformers and PCB contaminated materials was the first order of business for her when she began working at Camp Grayling in January, 1988.

"Since the 1987 PCB incident, procedures have been implemented at Camp Grayling for the proper disposal of PCB waste, hazardous waste and liquid industrial waste," she said. "Camp Grayling does not receive these types of waste materials from other military facilities."

LAKE CONCERNS

Katalenich concluded his report by saying that Camp Grayling is located on the shores of Lake Margrethe, a 1,920 acre lake. He said an "improperly handled spill or improperly disposed PCBs could easily result in a major environmental problem."

Caswell told the commissioners that she had given them the 1987 PCB report to re-emphasize the dangers that the proposed expansion of Camp Grayling and other polluting industries pose to Crawford County. She said the residents of Crawford County have an opportunity to protect their environment that downstate residents no longer have.

"Downstate is so bad," she said, "that people have given up. I know, I lived downstate. Up here," Caswell continued, "we have to make it as good and as safe as we possible can. Then we can go to bed at night and we don't have to feel guilty."

UAW - Nissan Vote Localized

BIG ITEM IN economic news of late is the overwhelming rejection by workers at the Nissan automobile plant in Smyrna, Tenn., of an organizational bid by the United Automobile Workers union.

The 2,400 hourly workers at Nissan said "no" to the UAW by a whopping 1,622-711 margin.

Wow! That's a real kick in the teeth for the union, and a real feather in the cap of management.

The union drive was deemed by many observers as a distinct challenge to the Japanese-style team management, and the heralded Japanese industry's reputation for enlightened labor relations.

Does the vote mean that the UAW is on the skids? Can highly industrialized states such as Michigan look for a waning union influence? Is the day of industrial unionism at an end? Is Japanese attitude going to control labor-management relations in the United States?

Don't bet on it.

TAKING A LOOK at the situation in Smyrna indicates the workers' decision against the union most likely was highly localized.

Sure, there are hints of strict anti-unionism in the vote. A better than 2-1 rejection doesn't bring many smiles at UAW headquarters in Solidarity House.

And after 18 months of intense effort to organize Nissan workers, the UAW still has no union at any of the three Japanese owned and operated plants in this country -- Nissan in Tennessee, Toyota at Georgetown, Ky., and Honda at Marysville, Ohio.

The UAW does represent workers at the Mazda plant in Flat Rock, that also makes Fords, and at a joint Chrysler-Mitsubishi plant and a joint General Motors-Toyota plant. But where it's strictly Japanese, the UAW has no foothold.

PART OF THE reason for the UAW loss at Smyrna is that Tennessee is not a notorious pro-union area. Tennessee has right-to-work laws. Only 14 percent of its workforce is unionized, compared to 53 percent in Michigan, for example.

And what sort of benefits were the union organizers going to peddle to Nissan workers, anyway?

Consider a couple of conditions:

-- Nissan has never laid off any workers since the plant was opened in 1983.

-- Production workers at Nissan are paid $14.85 per hour in wages and bonuses; that may be less than most workers in the Big Three plants would make, but it's about one-third more than Tennessee's average manufacturing wage of $9 per hour.

One Smyrna production worker was quoted by The Detroit News like this: "If you worked for minimum wage like I have, you appreciate what you're making now. You don't bite the hand that feeds you."

THE JAPANESE appeal for teamwork may also have taken root among some Tennessee workers. Another plant worker was quoted about the organizing drive: "It was like someone was trying to divide our family."

But faced with the local issues, the union simply didn't have a very appealing package to sell the workers. Coupled with the historic lack of union sentiment in the state, it's no surprise the union lost its bid -- and soundly.

That doesn't mean the UAW is going to curl up and go away -- even at Nissan.

"The union drive at Smyrna is by no means at an end," said UAW President Owen Bleber, promising another organizational drive after the legally mandated one-year waiting period ends.

But unless things change a bit at Smyrna, the result likely will be the same.

At the Nissan plant in Tennessee anyway, the union just did not have a lot to sell.

NUTS AND JOLTS -- Some column closers from Hod Shewell:

-- How can a bank keep secrets when so many of its employees are tellers?

-- A student driver is a kid who is obeying the speed limit for the last time.

-- Minor surgery is always on the other guy.

-- Misery loves company and sometimes marries it.

-- Any married man who retires, and thinks that at long last he's going to be his own boss, is in for a surprise.

Progress and Nature Can Co-Exist Here

There are so many reasons for me to feel proud and lucky to be born and raised and still living and working in this small community called Grayling.

For those who do not know what I do, I have found my career niche in selling real estate. This profession has given me the opportunity to get out to see more of our county and enjoy the out of doors. I have also found myself more involved in local events, promotional affairs, and even some political dealings that may intersect with my business.

Unfortunately, this is also how I have become more aware of the damaging effects that progress is inflicting on our beautiful natural environment.

Tourism, National Guard training and local industry are necessary evils, if you will, in our community.

With tourism being a strong form of support and economic health in Crawford County, we have found the need to be tolerant to the variety of people passing through or coming here to find a place to relieve their everyday tensions and anxieties.

The training of the National Guard has brought much controversy among our community. The Guard assists in bringing money to the local businesses and they have even donated their engineering division to build bridges in the county, not to mention the voluntary preparation to our national defense. This subject has been carried quite to the extreme. The regular readers of this local paper should already be aware of the issues by now. I shall not delve into the topic, as well as the issues dealing with the proposed formaldehyde producing plant to be erected in Beaver Creek Township.

The job I have, and indeed enjoy, is to be able to show newcomers to the area the beauty of our community and the advantages of its resources. I love being able to show them homes, property, and explain some of the history of the area.

There is nothing better than to be able to boast about our community growth and natural beauty. I enjoy touring a future resident through the countryside that, by the way, also takes me away from the telephones and drudgery of paperwork that is related to my business. I like showing people the advantages we have in sitting back to watch the natural splendor of the four seasons that northern Michigan has to offer. Mostly, I take pride in being part of helping a family settle into a new home and becoming part of the community.

This, I am sorry to say, is getting harder and harder to do. I find that some of the questions asked by these potential tax payers are very legitimate and very tough to find answers to.

It saddens me to have to watch the relatively few people exploit and destroy the land that we may take for granted much of the time. Many people don't understand nor do they care to appreciate the clean, clear waterways, an unspoiled landscape, fresh air, or an undisturbed mother doe and her fawns.

Because of this, garbage is found along the roadsides and trails, landscape is chewed up and scalped by ORV's of every type, and even a company that must admit that the plant that they wish to build will emit toxic pollutants into the air, yet they still intend to build it here.

There are no easy solutions when it comes to progress vs. nature. But it has been proven possible that progress can work compatibly with nature if we work hard to find ways to make it work. We must better educate ourselves in order to be able to educate others who wish to use our land.

We need to work at finding more economic resources that do not cause health concerns or the exploitation of our greatest asset, our natural resources.

I fully believe in promoting and working to build our community to keep up with the progress quickly growing in the world around us. And this can be accomplished without interrupting nature's balance...if we try.

If I may, I want to close with a quotation that I had found written by a former northern Michigan resident who had revisited and found that she missed the life that she had moved away from.

"We do not have more hills than climbers, more valleys than viewers, more wetlands than wanderers, so let us pass through these country places with a quiet curiosity and passing leave no evidences of having been there."

... about your Social Security

Midsummer is a good time for working Social Security beneficiaries to check their earnings for this year, to be sure the estimated earnings amount they told Social Security is still accurate. When earnings are estimated accurately, any needed adjustment in benefits can be made while the person is working. This avoids any overpayment in Social Security benefits.

Except for the first year a person begins to receive Social Security benefits, $1 in benefits is withheld for every $2 earned above the yearly limit. The annual limits for 1989 are $6,480 for a person under age 65 all year, and $8,880 for those 65 through 69. There is no earnings limit beginning at age 70.

For the first year benefits begin, a special monthly rule can be used. This allows the person to receive benefits for any month that earnings do not exceed a monthly limit, regardless of the total earnings for the entire year. The monthly limits are $540 for people under 65, and $740 for those 65 - 69.

These earnings limits do not apply to people receiving benefits based on disability. Disabled people must report any work and earnings, and should ask about the special rules for disabled people who work.

People receiving Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments must also report all earnings promptly. These limits do not apply to SSI.

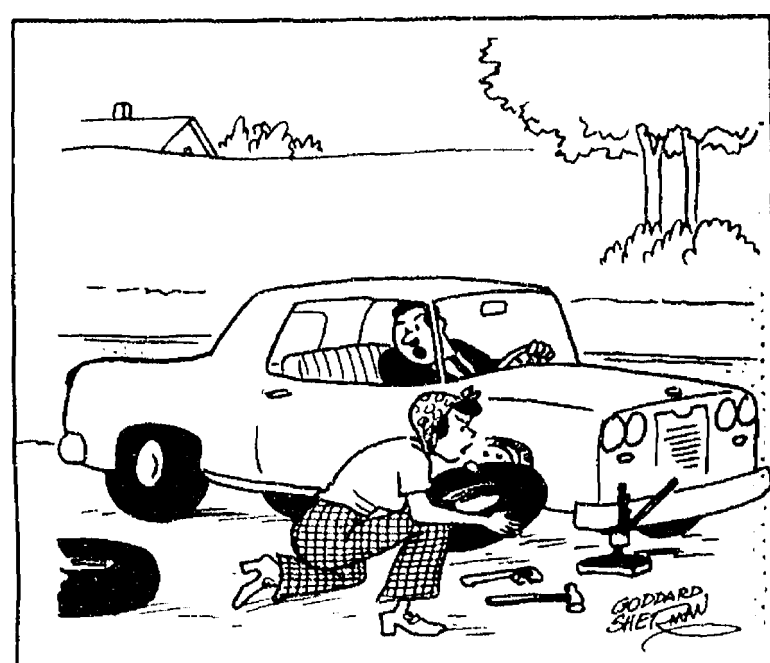

Not all income counts as earnings. Only work related income counts. For instance, some things that don't count are interest, dividends, pensions, rent, capital gains, and unemployment compensation benefits.

What does count are gross wages from employment, and net profit from self-employment.

To report or estimate earnings, or to request more information about the earnings limits, or special rules for disabled people who work, call Social Security toll-free at 800-234-SSA.

Or contact the Traverse City office at (616) 948-8360.

A representative is at the Courthouse in Grayling on the first and third Tuesday of each month, 10:30 - 2:00. There is no phone service at this location.

"Hurry, Henrietta, or you'll be late for work!"

Let's Talk About It

By Joe Murphy

Mr. Henry Stephens, a wealthy lumberman who used to live in Waters, must have been quite a character. He was famous for his bottle fence and baseball teams. His bottle fence was two hundred feet long and four feet high. He had one of the best baseball teams in northern Michigan. The big building that used to be in Waters was built to house his team. I believe a couple of Grayling boys were on his team -- seems I heard Babe Laurent used to play for him.

I remember a story about Mr. Stephens -- seems he liked to go to Gaylord, walk into a saloon and order a drink for the house. He would then lay a thousand dollar bill on the bar to pay for the drinks. The saloon keepers could not cash the bill so they would have to stand the price of the drinks.

Old Pete (Jumbo) Johnson owned a saloon in Gaylord at the time, heard what Mr. Stephens was doing and got ready for him. Stephens came into Pete's saloon and ordered a drink for the house. When Stephens laid his bill on the bar, Pete reached down and started piling up sacks of change on the bar. Pete had gone to the bank and gotten a thousand dollars worth of coins. Stephens could not carry it away so he had to keep on buying drinks until it was gone. I heard it was a very well remembered day in Gaylord.

Speaking of characters, we used to have a few in Frederic. I remember old Frankie Holke and how he used to love to play his old tunes on his organ. The kids used to go down to Frankie's shack and listen to him by the hour. He was a kind, gentle, old man who caused no one harm. No one could figure out why he wore a woman's dress over his clothes and Frankie would never tell.

Another was Old Burt Damouth. He had shot and killed a man named Carney, just up the river from Deward. Seems Old Burt was going to see Carney's wife while he was working. Carney got wide and there was a shoot-out, which Carney lost. Burt served a few years in Marquette prison for the shooting. Burt told me about it when I was a kid, saying he should never have been convicted, because Carney committed suicide by shooting at him with a revolver when he had a shotgun in his hands.

Roy (Gabby) Wells was another man who made living in Frederic interesting. Gabby had the first automatic dishwasher in Frederic. His old dog, Sloppy Joe, kept his plate clean enough for him. If you saw Gabby with his cap cross-ways on his head, you could be sure he had gotten into the "tangle-foot" a little heavy. I remember when Gabby finally parted with his old Model "A," which he called "Iron-sides," he got a four-door, later model. The day he got it, I happened to be at the store when he came out. He went strutting up to his car, opened the back door, and climbed in. I can still see the shocked look on his face when he couldn't find the steering wheel.

I want to say a big thank you to all the fine folks who have had a kind word (either in person, by phone call, or letter) about my efforts. I was really surprised that so many were reading and enjoying this and my poetry column. I feel very humble and grateful knowing so many of you took the time to read them. To all you nice folks who supplied information about some of our town's history, I am grateful and with your help will try to get more of our history in print.

Nancy, in Germany, said that although she was in the center of Germany's industrial area, it was very green and beautiful. Nancy said the German people have a great liking for flowers and that every apartment had balconies with flower boxes and the homes had beautiful, well-kept gardens. She said she felt very much at home with her German family.

He is the sole survivor of the ill fated mission which ended in a crash at Charlevoix Monday when several high ranking officers were killed. Doug was en route home on furlough. Having cracked up several times before on grassy runways, he decided to hitch hike home from Charlevoix rather than ride out to the Traverse City airport. The plane took off and two minutes later Doug was on active duty at the burning plane.

Chamber Receives Direction from Members

The Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce has recently established several new objectives. Based on a recent questionnaire that was sent to all 240 Chamber members, several issues were identified by the responding membership as specific areas of Chamber interest.

According to Chamber Executive Director, Deborah Barry, the Chamber saw a need to consult its membership to identify the direction that the Chamber should be taking. It is no secret that for the past few years the Chamber has not been as active as the business community would have liked it to be. But according to Chamber President, William Carey, with the newly established direction from the membership and Deb's leadership, the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce is proud to state "the winds of change are in the Grayling air."

The Chamber questionnaire was compiled with questions from five pre-identified sub-categories of Chamber concern. The five industrial development, and Networking/Programming.

At the July Board

Meeting, three proposals were submitted as a result of the membership's response to the respective questions, and were approved by the board. The first proposal was in response to the Chamber's involvement in legislative issues. An overwhelming majority of the membership felt the chamber should take an active role in both local and state legislative issues that relate to tourism, industry, small business concerns, and the membership as a whole.

The second proposal supports the Chamber taking an active role in the recruitment and retention of local industry. More than 96% of the responding membership positively supports the Chamber's involvement in industrial development.

The third and final proposal was presented and approved on the basis that the membership and board both felt a need for the Chamber to take a position in regard to the National Guard-Camp Grayling issue. The Chamber has taken an advocacy role for Camp Grayling. The current situation is complex as it relates to tourism, local economics, and environmental concerns in Crawford County. The proposal was undertaken with much consideration and with the understanding that continued efforts of communication will be mandated in good faith by the authorities of the Michigan National Guard-Camp Grayling.

There were other areas of concern identified by the recent Chamber Membership Questionnaire. Specifically, tourism is seen by the membership as a very important aspect of Grayling's future. The recent cooperative efforts of the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce and the Grayling Areas Visitors Council have already set the wheel in motion. The Visitors Council has established several means of advertising the Grayling area, including the professional design of a Visitors Council Logo, and a toll free 1-800 YES MICH visitors hotline.

The Chamber looks toward its membership and the community for unified support in achieving the future success of Grayling and Crawford County.

Building the Heartbeat of the North

The ULTIMATE Get Well Gift

Grayling area patients who need life-saving blood receive it from the Red Cross Regional Center in Petoskey. So do patients from 12 other northern Michigan hospitals.

But the readily available supply of safe blood we depend on is in jeopardy. Here's why:

More than 20,000 pints of blood will be processed this year in space that was designed in 1974 to handle 8,000 pints. The seriously overcrowded conditions are becoming intolerable -- the chances for human error will soon be just too great.

To ensure that the ultimate get-well gift is here when we need it, we must construct a new Blood Center entirely with private gifts. Already, $400,000 of the campaign's $975,000 goal has been pledged. The Kresge Foundation will give us an additional $100,000 if we are able to raise the final $275,000. We need your gift to quarry us for the challenge. And if we meet the challenge, we will get a new Blood Center.

Please make your tax deductible gift to the Red Cross "Building the Heartbeat of the North" Capital Campaign. If you have any questions, please call the Red Cross Blood Center at (616) 847-5964. Thanks for your get well gift!

Licence to Kill, Karate Kid III,
See No Evil Hear No Evil

Governor James Blanchard has proclaimed the week of August 6-12 as Homeless Assistance Week in Michigan, in order to focus on the needs of homeless individuals and families, especially the children. According to a report by MSHDA (Michigan State Housing Development Authority), there are an estimated 15,000 children in Michigan who are homeless.

At River House Shelter, we see the impact of the housing crisis daily in our domestic violence program. In our service area, Crawford, Oscoda, Ogemaw, and Roscommon Counties, there is little low income housing available. Most subsidized apartment complexes have an eighteen month to two year waiting list for residency. Single unit housing at an affordable price for low income families is practically nonexistent. Families on assistance or working for minimum wage can't afford to rent a two bedroom home that costs over $300.00 per month, not including utilities. The amount allowed for housing under most assistance programs doesn't even come close to the reality of housing costs in the four county area.

Once a woman is in residence at our shelter (98% of our clients are female with dependent children), she must decide if she will return home or seek housing for herself and her family. Someone searching for affordable housing in good condition in the four county area will be in for some real frustrations, especially if she has children.

Under most subsidized programs, one must provide a separate bedroom for children of opposite sexes. A person on assistance, searching for a three bedroom home, if she has both sons and daughters, will have a difficult time finding housing that is priced in the range allowable under her ADC grant. In one case, it took one of our clients nearly two months to find a house.

Some women will decide to return to the domestic violence situation when their attempts find suitable, affordable housing have been exhausted. This not only places the mother and children back into the dangerous situation; it also invokes feelings of guilt for the mother who can't provide a safe home for her children because of her economic status. The children, who are already traumatized by the violence in the home, the move to shelter, and feelings of anger, grief and confusion, are generally her first concern.

All children should have homes, meals, beds and protection from harm or danger. They don't deserve to live in substandard housing just because their mothers have lower income or because they are on assistance. They shouldn't be forced to live in violent situations because there isn't any alternative available within their mother's income levels.

The bad housing situation won't just go away. There is a definite need for more low income housing in this area. There is a need for reasonably priced rental units in good condition. There is a need for an end to the generalization that if you rent to someone on ADC or with low working income, your house will certainly be trashed or neglected. There is a need for transitional housing for people who are down and out because of temporary emergency situations.

There is also a need for people to be aware of the homeless situation and to do something about it.

Aug. 26th Treasure Hunt Open to Area Public

Participants are asked to register as soon as possible, with the entry deadline being 12 noon the day of the hunt. Bits of Talk

By Fay Bovee (348-7017)

Mary Lytle was a phone visitor of Bea Bice. She misses her Grayling friends and tells them all "Hello." She celebrated her 90th birthday in February, says that she is doing good, gets around a lot and had just visited her family at Wampler's Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Adams of Greenville, South Carolina, spent a couple of days with Mrs. Ruth Robertson. Joe and Mary Ellen Robertson, Angela and Jami, of Cass City, spent a week with his mother.

A bridal shower was given by Cindy Munson and Teresa Gothro for her sister, Val Krey, on Sunday, July 30, 1989, at Weatherly's Country House. Many family members and friends attended with Grandma Matilda Gildner being the eldest and Heather Krey the youngest.

Dick and Marcia Sullivan and children were visitors of her mother, Mrs. Doris Sorenson, over the long Milltown weekend. John is recovering from hand surgery a couple of weeks ago and is doing very well.

Tom and Karen Feldhauser Spirl and three children of New Hudson, spent several days with her grandmother, Doris Sorenson, and other family members.

Dr. Len Allison called to say that it has been fifty years since he and five other biologists did the first research on "swimmers itch." They did their research with copper sulfate treatment at Douglas Lake; the water temperature and wind and sandy beaches figure in the way the "bug" is carried on snails.

Sunday, July 30th, the Feldhauser family had their annual reunion at the Hartwick Pines. Eighty members attended Mr. and Mrs. Otis Feldhauser from Front Royal, Virginia were here. Mr. and Mrs. Jess Cruz Jr., from Harriman, Tenn., also attended. Mrs. Emma Knibbs, and Mrs. Edna Feldhauser, each received corsages for being the senior members. Whitney Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Feldhauser of Cadillac, and Monica Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tod Leslie of Grayling, were the youngest present.

Mrs. Marguerite Lucas of Mio, and Mrs. Wilma Roth of Bay city, were in charge of the reunion this year.

Dr. Steve Perry of Kirtland Community College has returned from Costa Mesa, California, where he attended an institute for college leaders. He was selected as one of only thirty administrators in North America to participate in the League for Innovation in the Community College's Executive Leadership Development Institute.

MERRITT WINNER — John Failing, of Grayling, was a winner at Merritt Saturday.

By Lois Mead
John Failing, of Grayling, piloted his yellow Number 31 racer to victory in the 2nd Pro-Stock heat last Saturday night at Merritt Speedway. John started the race in the third row. Scott Griner, of Traverse City, took the early lead. John worked his way into third place by lap three and on lap four moved into the lead. From that point on it was John's race as he stretched his lead to half a lap. With only four laps remaining, car Number 53 spun, bringing out the caution flag. This caution allowed the rest of the field to narrow the gap. On the restart John once again pulled away to an easy victory. Greg Hendershott, Number 1, was second.

John is sponsored by Flick & Sons, Maxi

Muffler, Hebert Plumbing & K and D Mechanical, Triple M Tire, and Alpine Performance Engineering of Gaylord. Last week's Pro-Stock Invitational Semi and Main Feature events were rained out. They will be held this Saturday night. Also scheduled for this Saturday is the I.M.C.A. Modified Invitational and Powder Puff.

Bet You Didn't Know

Brought To You By Cliff Wheeler Sales Representative

Here's an oddity...There's a man in baseball's Hall of Fame named Frank "Home Run" Baker who—despite his famous nickname—never hit many home runs!...The most homers Baker ever hit in one year in the majors were 12, and he averaged only 7 a season in his 13-year career...He got his nickname when he hit 2 key homers in the 1911 World Series—and the name "Home Run" Baker stuck, even though he never hit a lot of home runs before or after that.

How's this for a coincidence...The Most Valuable Player in the national major-college football championship Fiesta Bowl game last season was Tony Rice; the MVP of the Super Bowl last season was Jerry Rice; and the MVP of the men's major-college basketball finals last season was Glen Rice!

Did you know that THREE brothers once played along side each other in a big league baseball game...The San Francisco Giants in 1963 had brothers Felipe Alou in leftfield, Matty Alou in centerfield, and Jay Alou in rightfield!

I bet you didn't know...to be sure to see Cliff "Rice" Wheeler "Alou" for your new car or truck. He'll be your "most valuable player" without leaving you in left field. See Cliff today!

The Bible Speaks

From Calvary Baptist Church

The Gospel of John Part #90 Precepts About Prayer

The pattern for Christian prayer since pentecost is directed to the Father in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. "And in that day ye shall ask me nothing. Verily, I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you." (John 16:23). Prayer involves the entire trinity. The Holy Spirit makes intercession from within us, through the Lord Jesus Christ to the Father in accord with the will of God. (Rom. 8:26, 27). The result of Christian prayer is joy. "Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full." (John 16:24).

Prior to pentecost, Jesus spoke to His disciples in parables, but with the coming of the Spirit of Truth, they would be able to understand plainly. (John 16:25). Our prayers may now go directly to the Father in the name of Jesus. (John 16:26). Even though Jesus Christ is our intercessor, (Rom. 8:34), our mediator, (I Tim. 2:5), and our advocate, (I John 2:1), before the Father, yet we can approach the Father alone in Jesus' name. How much less do we need the assistance of any other saint or being. If it is not even necessary for Jesus to pray our prayer for us, who else do we need? When we pray in Jesus' name, we pray on the grounds of His person, His finished work, and His word. That is all we need. (Heb. 10:19).

Finally, we can pray to the Father simply in Jesus' name because the Father loves us and wants to hear our prayers because of our love for Jesus Christ and our faith in Him. "For the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and have believed that I came out from God." (John 16:27). Anyone who loves not the Lord Jesus Christ is under God's curse of damnation. (I Cor. 16:22). "We love him, because he first loved us." (I John 4:19). "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3:16). Jesus told us our love for Him is shown by our obedience to His words. (John 14:21).

The Father loves us and answers our prayer also because we "have believed" or have faith in the deity of Jesus Christ. We must pray in faith, not with doubt. (I Tim. 2:8). It is the prayer of faith which is answered. (James 5:15). "But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." (Heb. 11:6). God has made every provision for our successful communication with Him in prayer.

CHURCH DIRECTORY

AND THEN...

A caterpillar crawls along a branch. So unsightly and useless is he that, at best, he is scorned, at worst, exterminated.

A grain of sand, one of an infinite number, lodges within an oyster's shell. It is coarse and hard, worthless and unwanted.

And then, there are people. They are restless, a bit lonely sometimes, and apprehensive about the future. They enter churches and speak to God.

From the cocoon, a gaily-colored butterfly emerges. People paint pictures of it: children try to claim it as their own.

From the oyster, a pale, creamy pearl is taken. It is admired, sold for a small fortune, prized.

So, God changes the lowly caterpillar and richly clothes the grain of sand. How much more can He change the lives of those who ask it of Him!

God awaits you. Come meet Him in His house this week.

ATTENTION
To Residents
Of Beaver Creek
It seems that the majority of our honorably part-time elective of-

What they did may not be against the law but it sure looks shady as no one in the township knew about this except them. Maybe they think they are the U.S. Congress. If you want a voice for or against this, be

Recipes

By Phyllis Brummer

Cool foods and cool kitchens are much to be desired these hot days. Start a meal with a chilled soup, followed by a cool salad or a microwave meat dish. Here are some suggestions:

Chive Soup

3 Tbsp. Unsalted Butter
1/4 c. Flour
4 c. Chicken Broth
1/2 c. Minced Chives
3 Egg Yolks
1/2 c. Heavy Cream
1 c. Sour Cream

Melt butter, add flour and gradually stir in chicken broth. Add chives and cook until thickened. Beat egg yolks lightly with cream. Stir in a little of the hot mixture then return all to saucepan. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick, but do not boil. Cool to room temperature. Whisk in sour cream and chill. Makes 4-5 servings.

Shrimp Boats

2 Medium Cucumbers, peeled, halved and seeded

1 c. Large-curd Creamed Cottage Cheese

1/2 lb. Medium Shrimp, Cooked and Cleaned

1/2 lb. Smoked Salmon, cut into bite-size pieces (optional)

1/2 c. Chopped Chives

Salt cucumber halves, invert, and drain on paper towels about 1/2 hour. Rinse and dry. Place salad ingredients, except cucumbers, in bowl. Combine 1/2 c. plain yogurt, 1 Tbsp. lime juice, 2 Tsp. Major Grey's Chutney, minced, and 1/2 Tsp. fennel seeds and toss with salad. Fill cucumber halves and serve with a wedge of lime.

Micro Meatloaf

1 1/2 lb. Ground Beef
1 Egg

1 1/2 c. Soft Bread Crumbs
1 8 oz. Can Tomato Sauce
1 c. Shredded American Cheese
1/2 c. Chopped Onion
1/2 c. Finely Chopped Green Pepper (or 1/4 C. each green and red pepper)

1/2 Tsp. Thyme
1/2 Tsp. Salt
1/2 Tsp. Pepper

Combine all ingredients and spread in a glass dish that fits your microwave. Cover with waxed paper and cook on high 18-22 minutes until center is no longer pink. Let stand at least 5 minutes.

Grilled Italian Sausage

2 1/2 lb. Fresh Mild Italian Sausage
1/2 c. Dry White Wine
1/2 Tsp. Each Dried Rosemary and Thyme

Cut sausage into 6 pieces. Form each piece into a circle, securing loose ends with small wooden or metal skewer. Marinate sausages in wine and herbs for several hours in the refrigerator, turning several times. Grill sausages, basting with marinade, over low coals for 20-25 minutes. Serve in split round rolls with mustard.

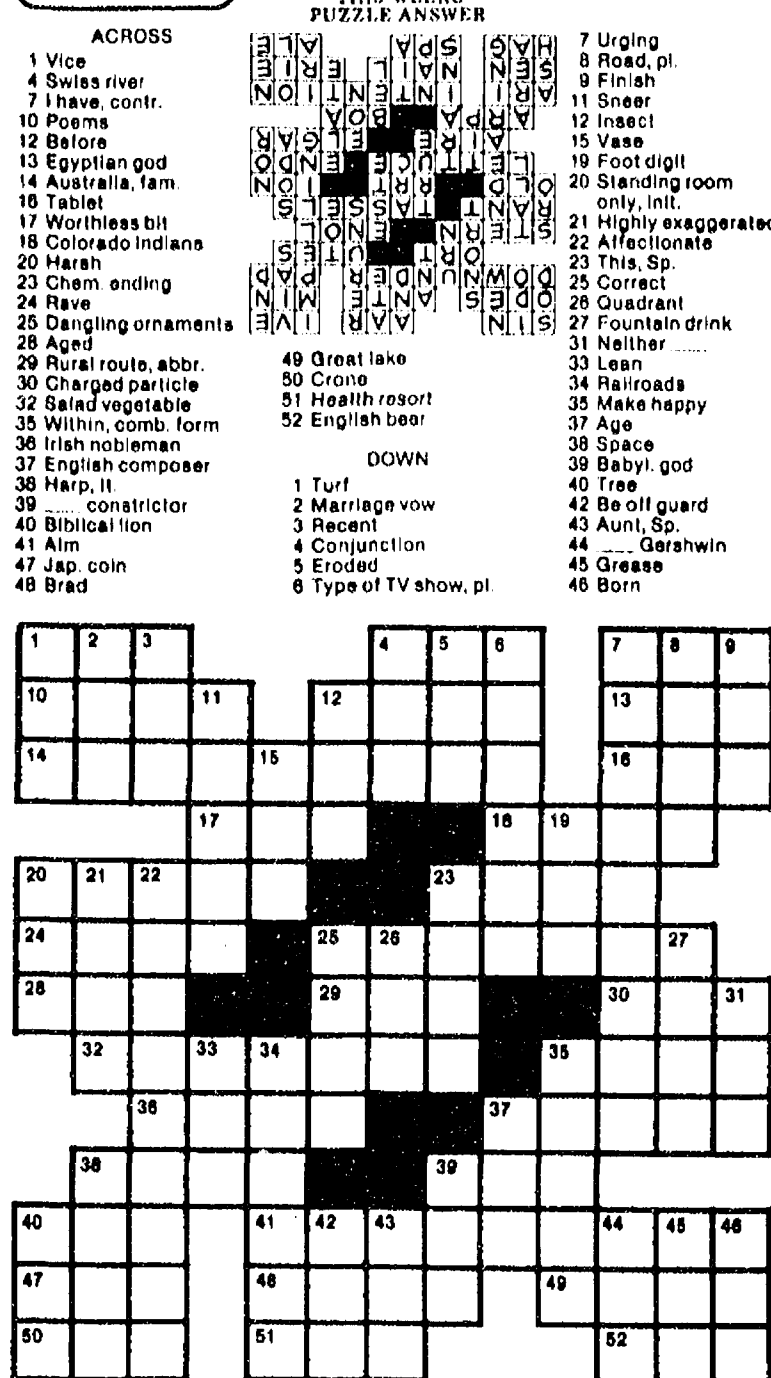

Strawberry Mousse

1 Pint Strawberries
1/2 c. Plus 2 Tsp. Sugar
1 1/2 Tbsp. Orange Liqueur
1 1/2 Tsp. Unflavored Gelatin
2 Tbsp. Cold Water
1 c. Heavy Cream

Wash, hull and dry berries. Puree about half of them or enough to make 1 cup. Add 2 Tbsp. sugar to puree. Slice remaining berries and combine with orange liqueur and 2 Tsp. sugar. Let stand 1/2 hour. Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve over low heat. Stir into puree. Whip cream with remaining 2 Tbsp. sugar. Carefully fold in the puree and the sliced berries with their juice. Spoon into glass serving dish and chill until firm. Makes about 4 cups.

Help Refused

The poor woodcutter ran up to the rich man's door
Begged him to make a call on his telephone
His son needed an ambulance real bad
He had cut his leg to the bone

The rich man looked at the man with disdain
And said with a haughty air
"There's a pay phone another mile up the road
You can make your call from there"

He said, "I don't have the time but here's a dime"
As he shut the door in the poor man's face
The old man went running down the road
Trying to win this deadly race

When he reached the pay phone there was no dial tone
He could not make the call
He went on running down the road
Till exhaustion made him fall

Then just by luck a passing truck
Came up on the old man that day
The truck driver's call on "channel nine"
Soon had an ambulance on its way

But his son was dead and the doctor said
If they had got there just minutes before
They could have easily saved his life
That he'd bled to death for sure

The old woodcutter thought of the rich man
Who had refused to make the call
Like he was afraid the old man
Would steal the jeweled cross from his wall

Poet's Corner

Sonnet II

I dance across a floor so smooth and wide;
My eyes deceive the shadow. Sun inside a box.
I live to dance. But shadow turns and mocks
My life of dance. I fear body gas lied
And sold away my space. To highest bid
Goes freedom. Locks on boxes, cash in hand
Away it skipped. Lost it slips to sand,
My space, my floor, my box with a lid.

A lidded pretty life I've led of ribbons
And bows. Unwrap my life I call a box;
Unwrap a span of space and time once more
To call my own. No longer lidded nor
A shadow cast aside to taunt and mock
I dance, a woman, made of flesh and bones.

Liriope Ground Covers Tolerate Poor Conditions

Liriope evergreen ground covers provide many advantages for the home landscaper seeking to simplify the yard work.

Reliable and inexpensive, the liriope group, which includes lily tuft and creeping liriope, are actually lilies, stemless evergreen shrubs. Liriope prefer shade or partial sun. In the proper environment, liriope multiply rapidly and succeed with little care.

Liriope are particularly valuable on slopes to prevent washing and in shady places where grass is a problem to establish and maintain. Liriope muscari is the most popular member of the liriope group. This plant is tolerant of adverse environmental conditions and requires a minimum of care.

Liriope reach heights of 12 inches and have broad, dark green grasslike leaves that are 12-15 inches long. Some varieties have green and white variegated leaves. Lavender-blue flowers resembling grape hyacinths appear in early summer. Some newer varieties bear white flowers. In Southern states liriope muscari has been popular for years as a border plant as well as a ground cover.

To establish a ground cover quickly, separate clumps and group individual plants about 3-4 inches apart. Every three or four years, clumps should be dug up and separated as they multiply and thicken.

Ground covers are best planted in early fall or spring. In the mountains spring planting is best. Spacing depends on supply and how quickly you want an area covered.

Resource Review

By Bruce Patrick
Conservation Officer

After several years of discussion and field recommendations, the Department of Natural Resources has taken steps to give increased protection to reptiles and amphibians. This may seem to be a drastic step to some people in northern Michigan, but serious depletion of some species in the southern part of the state has prompted this action.

The Director's Order (DFI-166.89) was issued June 14, 1989 and offers complete protection to three species of turtle (Wood, Spotted and Eastern Box), a snake (Black rat snake), and a frog (Cricket Frog) in addition to those reptiles and amphibians protected by the Endangered Species Act.

Further, provisions are made for the taking of reptiles and amphibians under the Michigan Sportsmen Fishing Law (Act 165, P.A. 1929). A few of the provisions of the order are:

1) a limit of 10 traps, with specifications, for the taking of turtle.

2) turtle traps are to be tagged with the owners name and address.

3) open seasons, size and possession limits.

4) restrictions on commercialization in reptiles and amphibians.

Complete copies of the order are available to interested persons. A synopsis of the regulations should be in the 1990-91 Fishing Law Digest available in March.

EYE PROTECTION

QUESTION: What amount of protection can be expected from regular dress eyewear?

ANSWER: All eyewear approved by the Food and Drug Administration must be impact-resistant. The amount of protection you can expect from these lenses is very general and dependent on the activity that you may be engaged in. Dress eyewear is treated to be impact resistant, but this does not mean they are shatterproof or safety lenses. Safety eyewear is available in different types such as Safety Glasses with side shields, Goggles, Face Shields, and tinted Shields or Goggles. Lenses may be made in either plastic, treated glass or polycarbonate materials. Be aware to adequately protect your eyes. The activity must be considered when choosing Safety Eyewear.

Hanson Hills Seeks Fulltime Recreation Director

The Grayling Recreation Authority (GRA) is looking for a fulltime recreational director to operate the Hanson Hills Recreation Area.

Pauline Petrosky, Chairwoman for the GRA, explained that the longevity of the millage, the longevity of Hanson Hills' lease, and the availability of additional funding through the state's recreational grants (proposal 1) approved by voters last November has prompted the GRA to restructure Hanson Hills' operations.

Another incentive for the restructuring came during the recent millage election for Hanson Hills when the GRA came under some fire by residents for not offering a fulltime recreation program. Petrosky said people were willing to come forth and support the park with millage, but they wanted a park with year-round recreation programs.

"We made a commitment," she said. "We told the taxpayers, 'Give us this millage and we will stay year round, we will put in new programs.' We can't honor that commitment with the park as it is today."

"We are in the black financially," she said, "and it is time to expand." To do this, Petrosky said Hanson Hills needs a director experienced in recreation management, grant writing and long term planning and understanding of government units.

To fill the position, the GRA is advertising with all university placement programs, area daily newspapers, and other northern Michigan papers.

In the past, Scott Remsing and Lonny Mooneyham have shared a managerial position. Petrosky said the GRA was encouraging these men to apply for the new position. She said that once a director is selected there would no longer be a need for the shared manager position, but that Remsing and Mooneyham each bring special skills to the park. Remsing in the day-to-day operations, and Mooneyham with a knowledge of the equipment and how the park is put together. Petrosky said Remsing and Mooneyham have also been encouraged to consider staying with the growing park under a new director.

Other future changes the GRA is exploring is the possibility of putting all county parks and recreation sites under one county-wide recreation authority. She said this might include Wakeley Park on the AuSable, the Grayling Fish Hatchery, and Hanson Hills.

Consumers Powers Says Cogeneration Plant Progress is in Jeopardy

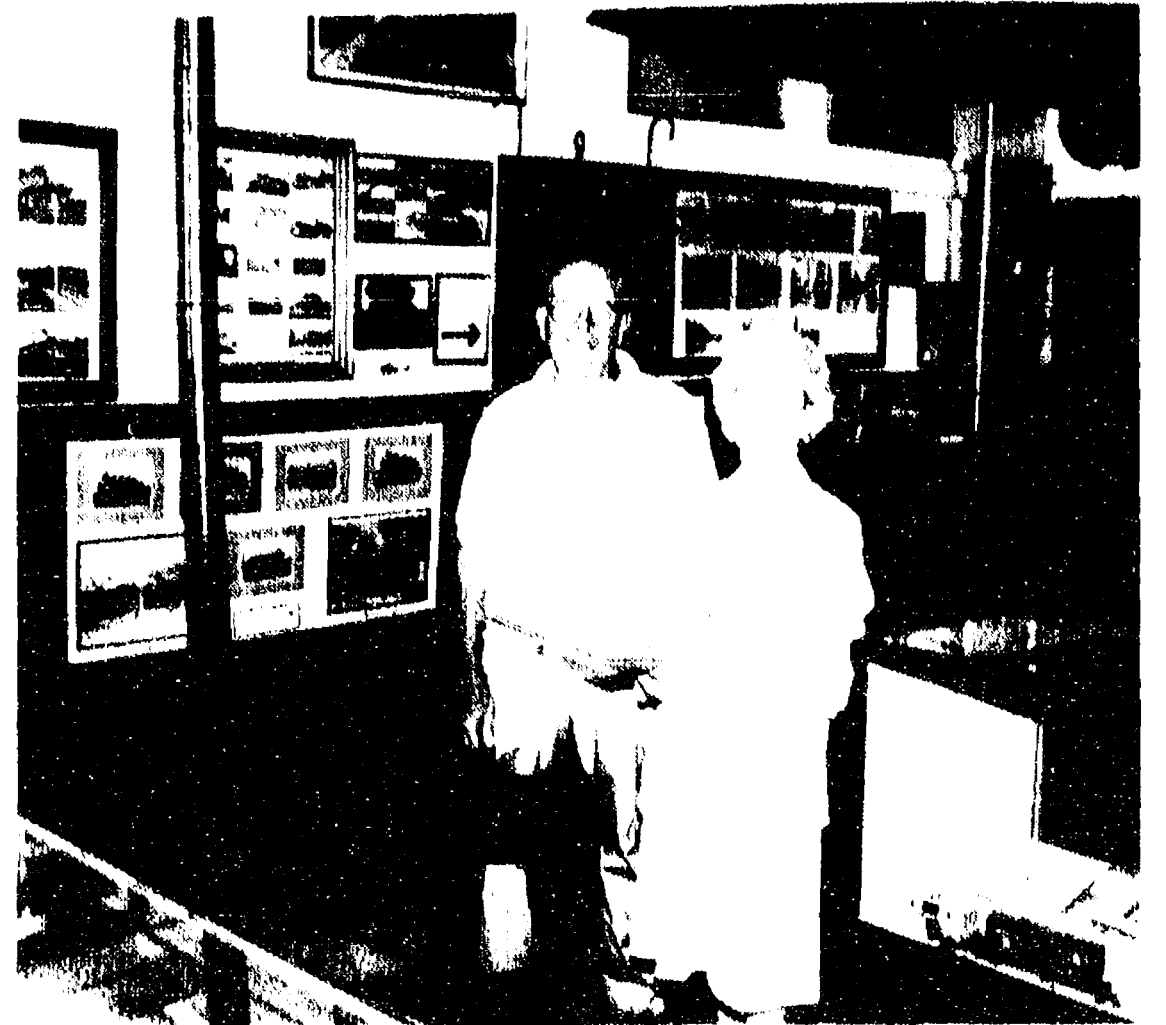

A group of industrial energy users, the Association of Businesses Advocating Tariff Equity (ABATE), seek to block the progress of cogeneration power supplies in Michigan, said Consumers Power Senior Vice President John W. Clark.

On July 21, ABATE asked the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) to block Consumers Power's federally-mandated obligation to honor signed purchase power contracts with three independent power projects being developed in Cadillac, Grayling and Morely, Michigan.

"ABATE's latest actions are consistent with its ongoing efforts to block cogeneration in Michigan -- at Midland, and now in Cadillac, Grayling and Morely," said Clark. "ABATE's ongoing obstructionism creates unnecessary hardship for cogeneration project developers throughout the state," Clark stated.

The proposed site for the Grayling cogeneration plant is along Four Mile Road.

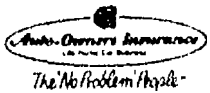

HISTORICAL MUSEUM DONATION — Mrs. Salome Sheppard, 97, donated a trundle bed used by her father, Eli Forbush, an antique table and various photos of Ward's Orchard located near Frederic. Forbush came to Crawford County in 1881 to manage the orchard. His great nephew, David Forbush, owns and operates Forbush corners. Pictured with Mrs. Sheppard is Robert Ruddy, curator for the Crawford County Historical Museum.

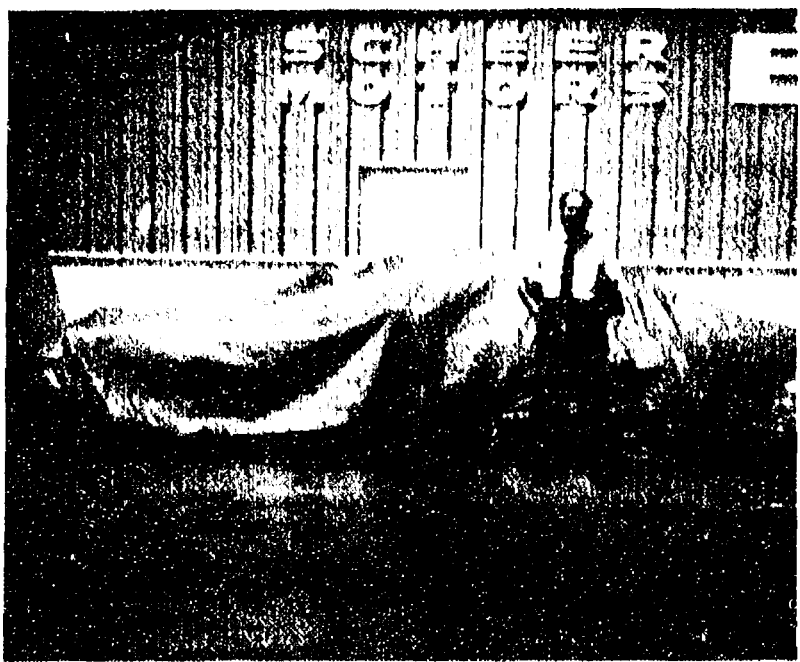

The last thing you need now is a problem with your claims service.

Have you ever waited for a claims check? And waited? And waited? Maybe you should learn about the "no problem" people from Auto-Owners. They take pride in their fast, fair claims service. What's their secret? It's their common sense approach. They know having a claim isn't one of life's pleasures, so they try to make it a bit more tolerable for you. Maybe that's why almost all of Auto-Owners policyholders are satisfied with their claims service. Check out their fame-to-claims yourself. See your "no problem" Auto-Owners agent.

UNITED STATES BANKER MAGAZINE IS CALLING US NAMES.

AND WE COULDN'T BE HAPPIER.

The July issue of United States Banker named Old Kent "Best Performing Bank" in the country. Needless to say, we are very happy about that. We are grateful to our employees for their dedication — and to our loyal customers, whose support helped make this possible. So to all of you who have made Old Kent your bank, a very sincere "Thank you" from all of us.
